

The Moon's Love

Nightly I bask in the beauty of the moonlight,
I drink in its love.
It reassures me that I am loved,
And that even though you are gone,
I am never alone.

Not a day goes by that I don't think of you,
What might have been,
What should have been,
All the memories of what has been.

You smile down on me, each and every night,
And tuck me in as I turn out the light.
The moon shines in my window.
My heart warms in its precious glow.

I am grateful for the time I had with you.
How it hurts that our time is through.
Your girl I will always be,
And to my heart, you will always hold the key.

I turn to the moon,
I drink in its love.
It reassures me that I am loved,
And that even though you are gone,
I am never alone.
